S. G. BRUCE DENTIST

Why the Youth's Companion Should be in Every Home.

"If I could take only one paper," said the late Mr. Justice Brewer of the Supreme Court, "it would be The Youth's Companion—a little of everything in a nutshell, and unbiased." The Companion is a family paper in the completest sense. It provides reading that, without failing to interest the young, still interests the mature. It unites young and old through their common enjoyment of delightful fiction, agreeable miscellany, and the clear exposition of public questions.

So certain is it edited, so varied are its contents, that it would easily supply a family with entertaining fiction, up-to-date information and wholesome fun, if no other periodical entered the house.

If you are not familiar with The Companion as it is today, let us send you sample copies and the Forecast for 1915.

New Subscribers who send $2.00 for the fifty-two issues of 1915 will receive free of all the remaining issues of 1914, besides a copy of The Companion Home Calendar for 1915.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 144 Berkeley Street, Boston, Mass.

POSITIVELY MASTERS CROSS

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cures the thick choking mucus, and clears away the phlegm. Opens up the air passages and stops the hoarse cough. The gasping, strangling fight for breath gives away to quiet breathing and peaceful sleep. Harold Berg, Mass. Mich., writes: "We give Foley's Honey and Tar to our children for cough and it always acts quickly." No wonder a man in Texas walked 15 miles to the store to get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Every user a friend. For sale by Evan's Pharmacy.

ADVENTUROUS LIFE OF LITTLE INDIAN GIRL

WAS BORN ON PINE RIDGE AGENCY SURE RIFLE SHOT

Pictureque Figure Will Be Seen in Anderson When 101 Ranch Comes Here.

Princess Wenona, the little Sioux sureshot with Miller Bros. Arlington's 101 Ranch Wild West Show, which exhibits in Anderson next Tuesday, Oct. 27, has had a remarkably adventurous life, even for an Indian.

She was born on the Pine Ridge agency, South Dakota; was captured with her mother by a band of renegade Crees and carried across the International line into Canada; was kept a prisoner until she was ten years old; was rescued by a band of roving Bands, and ultimately found her way back to her own tribe; was sent to the Carlisle Indian school and received a liberal education; was thrown from a pony on returning to reservation and was so nearly killed that the old squaws were preparing to chant for her; was decreed by the old chief, Gray Eagle, to wed his son, Soaring Elk, but had other views, and eloped with William Eagle Shirt, another young brave who has since become a chief and has won great success in the 101 Ranch motion pictures as well as in the show; had to evade the wrath of the old chief, and finally returned to the reservation after his death.

The wanderings of the couple and the necessity for providing for themselves in a wild country developed Princess Wenona's movements as a rifle shot, and on her return to the tribe with her husband she was recognized as the champion rifle shot of the reservation. Tals cleverness with the rifle has now developed and the Indian girl is said to have few peers. She can shoot, it is said, equally well on a pony riding at full speed as on the ground. Some of the shots she achieves in the 101 Ranch performance are credited with being remarkable.

Princess Wenona lives in a tepee among her own people in the Indian village which is such an interesting feature of the 101 Ranch show—a proof of the power of blood and environment—but she is nevertheless, as bright and gifted a conversationalist as an educated American girl. The Indians give a picturesque coloring to the exhibition, and combine with the cowboys, the cowgirls, the Mexicans and other Wild West people, to sky nothing of the Cossacks, to keep the interest at fever heat. Some professional novelties are promised for the parade which inaugurates 101 Ranch Wild West day.
